Empty stairs are rare September sights. "Will field trips be anything like this?"

Rush, Tours, Frosh Camp Help Orient BU Newcomers

Another summer ended all too quickly for the Greek sorority members who returned to the Butler campus to have "another go at it." All along West Hampton Drive and Sunset, active members of the seven national sororities on Butler's campus, piled out of overloaded cars into sweltering houses even before August had faded into the background.

In spite of the heat lethargy and some crepe-hanging national journalists who had predicted a lack of interest and resulting decline in Greek membership, rush week ran smoothly and successfully. Another year was under way. Next in line for freshman was Orientation Week. Tours of the library and planetorium served as jegging practice as well as information sessions. Preliminary sessions with counselors and deans were next, and the Presidents reception, the traditional soiree followed.

The YM-YWCA sponsored Freshman Camp, which came in for its share of mosquitoes and volleyball, spelled finis for a memorable week introducing hundreds of Butler newcomers to the joys, sorrows and frustrations that are synonymous with the University.

Once class begins, it's back to the books for the Butterites.

Non-participation Proposal Executes Appeal to Alumni

Coming home for Butler olumni wosn't quite the same in 1971 as it hos been in past years. The student body voted not to participate in any Homecoming activities in an ottempt to moke on appeal to returning alumni to listen to their pleas for better communication with the administration and for an understanding of their dissotisfaction with the present status quo.

Chority was the main emphasis this year. Housing units sent their house decoration money to various local and notional chorities. Although the compus looked pretty bare with no house decs or afternoon activities, the weekend wasn't lacking in excitement. The Bulldogs stirred up a great deal of it in their victory over the Sycamores at the football game Saturday afternoon and both students and alums enjoyed dances and class reunions Saturday night. Newspaper and radio reporters scanned the campus for coverage on the boycott. Homecoming '71 will definitely be one to remember!

The row was streaked with signs exclaiming "We lave you, Daddy" and proud fathers from all corners of the country poured in (along with the rain) to find out what really gaes an at Butler University on the weekends. We fear that they didn't get a very accurate picture since hausemothers brought out the best china; cooks prepared meals never seen before at B.U.,⁵ the Dags fought their hardest, and kids were an their best behavior. The anly thing typical of Butler that weekend was the weather. Umbrellas got their usual warkaut and Bulldag fans left the stands wet and disappointed. The wet weather didn't dampen spirits, hawever, and all went well until goodbyes an Sunday.

Spring Sing Songs Snow Butler Moms

On Mothers Day, 1971, Butler Mams got a chance to escape it all and enjoy a weekend in that old college atmosphere. Rooms were cleaned, hair was trimmed, and last minute corsages were bought in honar of the occasion.

Highlighting the activities was Spring Sing, Butler's annual Spring Songfest with campetition among housing units. In addition to the male and female categories, the 1971 program was enhanced by a greater number of mixed groups. Ross Hall and Schwitzer Hall walked off with trophies for the men's and women's competitian, respectively. The combined efforts of Alpha Phi and Delta Tou Delta won the mixed group's campetitian.

Other separately planned activities and the YM-YWCA sponsored Chapel Service attracted the maternal visitors, rounding out the activities for Mam's Weekend 1971.

Festival Attracts Audiences Gains Worldwide Acclaim

One of Butler's greatest cultural achievements takes place every spring in the form of the Romantic Festival. Under the direction of Frank Cooper, the fourth year of the Romantic Festival presented superb performances by Butler groups and guest artists. The week festival occlaimed world reknown and attracted famous performers as well as local audiences. The Voice of America interviewed Romantic Festival participants for worldwide broadcast. The festival was covered by Time magazine in five foreign languages. World-famous entertainer Victor Borge donated his services and made a volunteer appearance to benefit the festival. The festival drew large audiences of performing arts lovers. Among them was an interested group of local citizens who bought an $18,000 piano which was flown in from Vienna for the concert and donated to Butler. The experience gained by students performing with professional performers enhances the importance of this fantastic musical adventure. The Festival was again a success!

Ballets Bring Beauty, Add Fame to BU

The Fine Arts are one of Butler's specialties and the Butler Ballet certainly proves this. Bath the ballet as a group and the individual members excelled in dance techniques and perfarmances. The touring campany graced Butler's campus with several perfarmances on the Clowes stage. The dedication of participating dancers contributes much to the fine quality of the ballet.

The Ballet Company perfarmed many different types of dances last year. One of the opening performances of the 1971-72 season was based upon the pranks of camic strip characters. "The Adventures of Flick and Flack" was chareagraphed by Dance Department Chairman George Verdak.

Greeks-Independents Strive-Succeed Together

Both Greeks and Independents found 1971-72 to be a successful year. Several projects were attempted by each group separately. The Greeks pursued their rush changes, Greek Week, Greek newspaper, and service projects. The Independents spansored a trip to Chicago, and dances, entered Geneva Stunts, and participated in several campus committees.

The greatest ochievement of both Greeks and Independents last year was the cooperative efforts that they shared on such things as the Homecoming project, Student Assembly committees, and various concerts, films, and assemblies. Spiriters Promote Bulldogs; Racketeers Place in ICC

The positive promoters of Butler spirit this year are hard at work in originating new cheers and stunts. The cheerleaders were chosen lost spring in a rigorous tryout session which required the ability to do splits, cartwheels, walkovers and at least three kinds of jumps. Also, the men Cheerleaders ore getting standard uniforms. The captain of this year's team is Vicki Truax. The youthful Butler tennis team fared well against heavy competition last spring. Team members placed sixth in the ICC meet. With a four to eight win-loss record, Coach Mike Reardon has high hopes for future season competition. Team member Jack Higgins placed a noteworthy second in the singles competition in the Little State Tournament.

Coach Warner Premiers As Athletic Director, Coach

The Bluesox, Butler's baseball team, was off to an early start with Athletic Director and Bluesox Coach, Tom Warner, screening the talent and making final preparations for trimming the team members down to the 25 man maximum by late February. The pitching staff was led by Letterman Norm Bristley, who was ably aided by Kent LeBeau and rookies Steve Clayton, Jim McLinn, Chuck Howkins and Mike Scanlan. Caach Warner led the Bluesax to seven wins and seventeen losses in his premier seoson. The Butler diamond proudly sparts a new tarp which the Athletic Department purchased from the Cincinnati Reds.

Under Coach Jim Hauss's guidance, Butler golfers endured rough competition throughout the season as team members Carl March, Neal Dorsey, Greg Hardin, Terry Curry and Jack Owen prepared for the state tournament. Carl March shot a 2 under par 70 to lead the season as Butler defeated St. Joseph College, Indiana Central and Bluffton in a midseason contest. Butler fired a 301, outshooting St. Joseph and Indiana Central's scores of 311. Bluffton followed with a 331. In the ICC tournament, Butler's golfers faired a respectable second ploce.

Coach Stan Lyons and his Cross Country team had an outstanding season with 34 wins and 6 losses. The fifth place finish in the Little State meet was the best showing in years for a Butler team. Tom Burleson paced the Bulldogs as the Most Valuable Runner. He was honored at the Fall Sports Banquet along with Kevin Mc-Dowell, co-captain, who was presented the Mental Attitude award. Coach Lyons was also awarded a plaque by the team denoting him as "the greatest coach a team could ever have." AL. CONTRACT CONCEPT

Butler trock can be summed up in two words . . . one name . . . Gerald Woolfolk. In four seasons, superstor Gerry averaged over 20 points per meet. Against ICC Championship winner, Wabash, Woolfolk scored an amazing 26½ points. He was undefeated in four years of long jump and triple jump competition. Leading Butler to 3rd place in ICC he scored 24½ points. Twice he won the coveted Scott Ham Award. In Center Collegiate he was an inch short of Jesse Owen's 25'9" record.

Superstars Capture Top Recognition

Several Butler athletes representing varius sports, brought honor to their school and to themselves by being recognized for their athletic efforts.

Oscar Evans, a member of the National Junior College Basketball Championship team while at Vincennes University during the 1969-1970 school year, was chosen Co-Most Valuable Player for Butler.

The coaches of the Indiana Collegiate Canference chose Tom Redmand as the Most Valuable Lineman in the Conference. Tom led the Bulldogs and the ICC in pass-receiving by catching 42 passes for 658 yards.

By breaking the record of Bobby Plump, who finished his basketball career with 1439 points in 1959, Bill Shepherd became Butler's all-time point leader. Butler's Co-Most Valuable Player was also selected to participate in the 10th Annual East-West All-Star Basketball game by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Gerald Woolfolk was honored by the ICC by being one of five athletes chosen to campete for the Tony Hinkle Award for the outstanding player of all sports. For two cansecutive years, he has received Butler's Scott Ham Award for the outstanding trackman. He was the recipient of the Andy Williams Award for the outstanding athlete of the year, which is based on scholarship, leadership and athletic participation.

One of thirty-three scholarships for graduate study was awarded to George Yearsich by the Natianal Collegiate Athletic Association. George was chosen as a candidate-at-large, and the award, which is based on both scholastic and athletic competence, has never before been given to a Butler athlete. He was alsa awarded the Hilton U. Brown Award for mental attitude. His seven interceptions set a modern Bulldog record.

Pharmacy Dispenses Cures, Lectures on Drug Abuse

The College of Pharmacy at Butler University is an ever busy community. Students operate a dispensary, filling prescriptions for fellow students who live on campus as well as members of the Butler community. Many members of the pharmacy honoraries participate in a drug abuse lecture series, offering facts where fontasy prevailed.

Tours of the Pharmocy building are given daily, providing a look into the world of chemicals, measures, and periadic properties. C o m p l i c a t e d courses such as psycho-pharmaceuticals and pharmaceutical jurisprudence become commonplace.

Hard work and dedication prove to be the rule, not the exception, and are rewarded by membership in the pharmacy honorories, Phi Delta Chi and Lambda Kappa Sigma.

Endless raws of chemicals, the responsibility of dispensing the right combination of those chemicals, and the warning as to the unwise use of such chemicals are all part of a day in the life of a Pharmacy student.

Forensic Team Successful Record Proves Undebatable

One of the most unrecognized groups ot Butler, and yet, one that has brought B.U. much acknowledgement throughout the Midwest is the debating team. These tolkative, researching, argumentotive men and women have ventured into the circles of distinguished debating regions and emerged proudly with an 81 % winning record. Dr. "Coach" Gripe requires little of his most successful and hard-working members except that they be "beautiful and intelligent."

The first weekend of March, 1971, marked the beginning of the annual Butler Invitational. The end of October sow members of other Midwest colleges converging here for the Butler Invitational Individual Speech Tournament.

A few of the outstonding indivídual victories included Ginny Lombardo deboting her way to the State Oratorical Championship (Women's Division), a feat which proved to be the first such victory at Butler in twenty years. Todd Nielson and Rhanda Isokson captured the Eastern Illinois Invitational early in the fall, and Todd and Tom Sughrue continued the team's triumphant effort by seizing the Central Michigan Invitational.

To encourage debating on the high school level, the Butler Speech Department annually sponsors the High School Debate Clinic and the National Forensic Congress. Delta Sigma Rho-Tou Kappo Alpho, the debate honorary, sets a good example for these future forensic followers by requiring members to be in the upper fourth of their closs and to have two years of outstanding forensic activity.

This year, under the guidance of Captain Thomas Pickens and with Robert Vogler and Nani Hoogs serving as commanders, both organizations presented the Military Ball, treated orphans to Butler football and basketball games, raised the flag at the beginning of every football game, participated in the Big Brother Project, and hosted the Butler University Invitational State Drill Meet.

In addition, members of Angel Flight sponsored an essay contest on Americanism in a local elementary school, conducted a clean-up campaign in the Holcomb pond area, sponsored Glamour's Top Ten Best Dressed Coed Contest, and served as tour guides during Butler's High School Day.

Requirements for membership in the Arnold Air Society include a grade average of 2.0 and participation in the Air Force ROTC program. Angel Flight members are chosen by application and an interview of freshmen women with a 2.2 grade average.

Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eto Sigma, national freshmen scholastic honoraries, sponsored a tea for prospective members. Utes, the sophomore men's honorary, elected officers in December and looked forward to selecting activities.

Spurs, the sophomore women's service honorary, aided the University during Orientation Week, collected Coke cans for recycling, and sponsored various money-making projects to provide meals for needy families during holidoys, candy for hospitalized children on Halloween, and supplies and financial support for their national philanthropy, Projects Concern. Chimes, the junior women's service organization, ushered during Student Assembly lectures, led tours at the Indianapolis Art Museum, and roised money for their philanthropies.

Education, Home Ec Clubs Cook Up Batch of Methods

Are you tired of the same dinner every night? Do your clothes hang limp on you even when that's not the style? Is your diet balanced? Have you ever tried to create a dress? Do your classes put you to sleep? Was your history test relevant? Does your professor really enjoy his work, or is teaching just a way of earning a living for him? How important are grades?

These questions may not seem very noteworthy to some people, but to the members of the home economics and education departments of Butler, they are only the beginning of preparation for a career. Welwyn Club and Pi Epsilon Phi have provided outlets through which the problems and the discoveries of early home-making might be aired. "At this time, WAJC in Indianapalis begins a nother broadcasting day ..." with this, Butler's radia vaice occupies the 104.5 spat on the FM dial for thirteen hours of music, news, sports, and public affairs broadcasting. The students of the Radia and Televisian Department present "The Variety Sound" in Indianapalis to a widespread audience including all of Central Indiana and partians of Illinais, Ohio, and Kentucky.

From "Concert Hall" to "A Jazz Experience," and from live broadcasts of the Metropolitan Opera to "Big Band Swing" and "News 60," the students learn all aspects of radio broadcasting. Two shows populor among the campus audience are "Revolutions" and "Sounds Contemporary." "Revolutions" features two hours of the best of the current hard and heavy rock sounds. "Sounds Contemporary" is a free and eosy, calmly paced show, highlighting the tops in current hits.

Inter-Frat, Panhell, House Councils Get It Together

Cooperation and participation were the key words for Butler's Panhellenic and Interfraternity Councils this year. Sorority Rush was a great success with 90% of the rushees pledging the seven houses. Panhellenic attempted to make Rush less formal this year by eliminating some of the irrelevant structure. Panhel and IFC have expanded from governing boards to organizations offering involvement to interested students. They sponsored officer workshops, state conferences, a Greek newspaper, and service projects such as the March of Dimes Walkathon and the Salvation Army Bell Ringing Project. Participation in these areas has increased Greek spirit and strengthened Greek-Independent relationships.

The problems of all girls on campus were aired through House Cauncil, a group made up of all house chairmen and the Dean of Women. This year the board discussed areas of concern to all students and attempted to arrive at workable solutions. The work of these groups has been most beneficial to Butler's student body.

Alpha Chis Capture National Council, Scholarship Honors

For the second year in o row, the women of Alpha Chi chapter of Alpho Chi won the coveted National Council Trophy given to the most active chapter of its size. Proving themselves worthy of the honor, Alpha Chis filled spots in honoraries such os Alpha Lombda Delta, Spurs, Chimes, Mortor Board, and Sigmo Rho Delta. They were also active in Half-Time Honeys and the University Chorale.

At the Ponhellenic Banquet, President Sora Gilman stepped forward to receive the Scholarship Trophy given for the highest accumulative grade overage of a women's housing unit. To prove that scholarship was not their only achievement, the sisters blended voices and talents to participote in Spring Sing and Geneva Stunts.

Excelling individually as well as together, mony Alpha Chis acted as officers in campus organizations. Senior Nancy Brown (Ky.) carried the gavel for Mortar Board while Susie Coonrod served as Homecoming Chairman, Saro Gilman, os AWS vicepresident, served as House Council President, Alpha Chi activity in Student Assembly was seen as Kathy Wise edited the Gavel and Cara Chell and Chris King co-chaired the Butler Lecture Series. Rhonda Isokson was a member of Women's Advisory Board, while Nancy Cooper was secretary of Spurs. Freshman Tammy Hare made a splash as Sigmo Chi Derby Day Queen. Altruistically, the house joined with the Kappa Sigs to give a Christmas party for area orphans.

Tri-Delts Prove Energy Through Honor Involvement

The versatility of the women of Delta Delta Delta was demonstrated by their involvement in varied activities throughout the 1971-72 school year. Tri Delts claim membership in numerous honoraries including Mu Phi Epsilon, Angel Flight, Chimes, Martar Board and pharmacy and dance honoraries. They also have officers of these and other campus-wide organizations; Marsha Metcalf and Athina Eslick spend much of their time working far AWS as treasurer and money-making chairman respectively, while Patti Denton serves Mu Phi Epsilon, and Linda Cook participates as vice-president of Angel Flight. In addition to this, Linda has the distinction of winning the Silver Wings Award this year, Angel Flight's highest award.

Once a month, Tri Delts give their time to an institution such as an orphanage or retirement home. They also concentrate their energy toward campus altruism by raising money each year in order to grant a schalarship to any eligible Butler caed.

The Sigma Nus are noted for their top athletes and their little sisters. Now and then they prove their altruism, too. Examples were an arphans' party, and a honey sale for retarded children.

Sigma Nu supplies many of Butler's basketball, football, and golf stars. Among them are Billy Shepherd, Steve Clayton, Kent Ehret, Tom Redmand, Bob Grenda, Kent Moore and Bill Scatt. Dan Tribbett is commander.

Men of Central House Boast Good High

Though new to Butler's Campus, the house of Central Avenue is one of the oldest houses around. Members boast an occumulative high of 1.8 along with an average high most of the time. The members are very proud of their mascot, Puddles, and (depending an the neighbors dog) await the arrival of more pups.

After learning how to turn on the heater in mid-February, house relatiors improved. The fine men have purchased two cases of Roid in order to secure roach relations. The three weekly coses of Stroh's or Alp's, depending upon the economic status, have thus for failed to drown the sorrows of the woebegotten Giant Jack who is searching for someone he con look up to.

Altruistic services include such house repairs as building a shower and killing the mice in the oven.

Among the superstors in this house are Buddy Fields, Student Assembly prexy and John Cloxton, Film committee choirmen. Resident Erik Charles Atlas Johnson is kept busy in his position as head photographer and assistant editor of the Drift.

Mr. Johnson also serves as house president.

These happy residents of Central Avenue in front of the house include: Erik Johnson, John Claxton, Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Dean and Alex Landsmen, Kent-the-camero, Moureen McHugh, the bay next door, Pam, Puddles, Andy, Suson Pribble, Dean Stephens, Dave Rich, Strohs and Arlo. The roof-tap singers include: Friend, Bab-o, Brod Burton, Gumby, Steven "Wuffman" Wolfe, and Tim DiNotteo.

Linda Bierck reigns over the Trik-la-tron.

Delts Earn Spring Sing, Intramural Sports Trophies

Joining in song with the Alpha Phis, Delts danned tuxes to win the Spring Sing trophy. They then went an to prove that they were equally at home in the field as on stage by shawing their prowess in intramural events, for which they hold the saccer and ping-pang championship.

Supermoms Stick By Us At Old BU

RIDDLE: Who is a combination chauffeur, cook, maid, nurse, hastess, heart specialist and able to leap tall buildings in a single bound? Answer: SUPERMOM!

What does it take to be a house mather? A house mather is one who must be able to laugh when a fraternity man accidently places his big foat in the middle of her prize geranium. She must be able to look at grilled cheese sandwiches for the third lunch in a row without blanching. She must have the number of the Security Palice committed to memory in case of panty raids or similar harassment. Through it all she must maintain a saintly smile an her face and a devilish twinkle in her eye.

"The Title Is Impressive And So Is the Name"

"And now may I present Dr. Alexander Elvin Janes, president of Butler University?"

The name alone even without the title is impressive enough. However his accomplishments live up to first impressions.

A native of Independence, Missouri, the educator was a Rector scholar at DePauw. Additional degrees were taken at University of Minnesota.

DePauw honored their alumnus with an L.L.D. in 1964. The University of Arkansas granted him an L.L.D. in 1967, and Indiana Central College bestowed the H.L.D. an him in 1970. Dr. Jones taught at DePauw, University of Minnesota, University of Ar kansas and MacMurray Callege befare caming to Butler in 1959. Here he has served as Dean of the Callege of Liberal Arts and Sciences and professor of English. He was named Acting President in 1962 and elevated to his present post in 1963.

When one has risen through the academic ranks to head a major university, the ald canard "You must publish or perish," loses some of its pressure. This isn't the case with Dr. Jones. In fact a recent impressive third edition textbook co-authored by Dr. Janes is now on bookstore shelves.

He has authored another text and eighteen published articles. Many of them are about his fellaw Missourian, Mark Twain.

Dr. Jones wolks in the shode near Jordan Hall.

BU Administrators Coordinate Faculty, Staff

Necessary for the overoll efficiency of Butler, there are many different officers. These officers perform duties toward the goal of more effective dealing with the welfare of the Butler student, from opplications to alumni status. These administrators also coordinate Butler faculty and other members of the staff so the smoothest possible organization will result.

Business College Prepares Students Well

Some of the objectives of the College of Business are trying to give the students a broad knowledge and helping him develap a scientific, problem-solving approach to business. As Butler students graduate into the business world, they will find themselves more at ease with the problems placed upon them by that world.

Lilly Offers Ballet, Drama, Music, Radio

Located on the Northeast corner of the Butler campus is Lilly Hall, home of the Jardan College af Music. The college encompasses all the Fine Arts, including radio, dance, and music. Drama majors frequently perform in the University Theatre Studio 160. Students of Radia often team up with the Butler Theatre to present radia dramas on WAJC-FM. The station transmits music 52 weeks a year with the radio majors manning the mikes.

Student dancers and musicians work when the Butler Ballet performs accompanied by the University Symphony. Lilly Hall is a center of creative expression where students work with one another presenting the Fine Arts ta Indianapolis,

Butler Mourns Death of Professor Koehrn

Butler has suffered a great loss this year with the death of Fred W. Koehrn, associate professor of music.

Mr. Koehrn was an extremely popular instructor, and it was common knowledge amang the student body that his classes were enjoyable and informative experiences. He possessed a vitality and flair for teaching which made his courses a jay to attend. Mr. Koehrn taught Music Appreciation, Vaice, Charale Methods, and Chimes Methods.

Everyone in the Butler community has at same time thrilled to the music of the Carillon in the gardens. Pew were aware that he was the musician responsible for this lovely aspect of campus life.

For years during arientatian week, Mr. Koehrn directed freshmen in their first "Gallery of Memories." He served as faculty advisor for the Butler chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, and had been a member of the Jardan College of Music faculty for nineteen years.

Mr. Koehrn can be seen here as he was pictured in past Drifts, abave.
